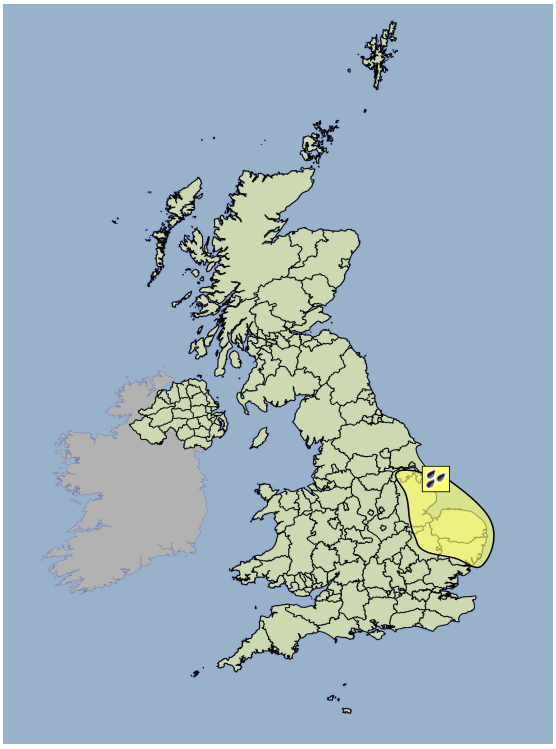
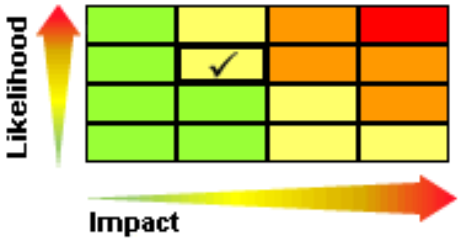
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A frontal zone extending from the near Continent continues to spread rain across parts of eastern England today and tonight. This will become heavy and persistent again in places, with 20 to 30 mm of rain perhaps causing some further localised flooding before easing again overnight. The heavier rain will then move northwards on Wednesday, for which a further warning is being issued.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 11:00 on Tue, 27th May 2014 until 02:00 on Wed, 28th May 2014

Further rain, heavy at times, will affect parts of eastern England on Tuesday and into the early hours of Wednesday morning.

The public should be aware of the potential for disruption, particularly to travel, and possible localised flooding.
